Employment of Female Labor.

Oakland, Cal., Dial.

I intend to show that it is wrong,
decidedly wrong, for women to do manual labor. Her place and her duties are at home, and away from the position of a man, she is a detriment to herself and to womanhood at large. I do not mean that her place is at home from a political standpoint, but from the fact that in the beginning she was created to be there, and instructed by her Maker where she was to reign. In all that goes to make a perfect being, woman, I hold,
is as far superior to man as are the heavens above our earth. All that was pure, unsullied, tender and good, was instilled in her being. Endowed with traits gentle, refined and ennobling, her place was designated about the heart-stone, where by her virtues and Christly precepts she was to turn man from his nature of boisterousness
and hardness to ways of gentleness and sacredness like her own. Her's was a duty, a mission; but see what she is to-day.

I hold that it is dangerous in the extreme, to the morals of women, and a danger to labor, for them to do manual work. To push them away from the heart-stone take away their modesty and that dignity and delicacy that men so love and expect. It gives them a hardness and blase exterior that breeds contempt and a lack of respect from every one, and only to men they are kicked then away from degraded, brutal instincts, and the gutter is their refuge. Women should be treated with respect by every one;
but when they grow indifferent to the little courtesies of life, and all through association with men of their business positions, nothing better than disrespect and discourtesy are to be expected.

When girls are forced to the menial labor of men there is something radically wrong with society, with labor,
and with monopoly, and it is disgrace to all of them. At paltry salaries, scarcely sufficient to pay their board, they are compelled to clothe and dress themselves at the expense of their virtue. The females, devoid themselves of all honor and character, exercise an influence over the young women, that drives them utterly, helplessly to destruction. There is the poverty at home, they know, and for the few dollars each week they are forced to change, from girls whose intention at first was the best, to harlots,
to live in the unloved, unloved and disgraced. It is better for women to exist and suffer the most excruciating poverty and hunger, than to lead the life being followed by twenty thousand young working girls in San Francisco and New York.

And fathers look at their daughters when poverty comes at the door, and declare that their girls will not go wrong. They let her leave the home, wretched though they may be, and she enters the factory. Before long she falls, and evengiant of her disgrace, she lies about her condition. She begins to wear clothes her parents, even with her help, could not buy, and goes from bad to worse. A brief season of feverish excitement follows, and then down she goes, dragging with her all those at home, who, until now, thought her proof against the temptation she was bound to contend with as a laborer.

A few years ago a beautiful girl was found in the bay at this place, and no one knew her. Twenty-four hours afterwards the chief of police had received eighteen telegrams from different parts of California from loving parents, asking if the suicide was their girl. Eighteen homes had thus been desolated through the weakness of a many children, and a further investigation showed that all of the eighteen had fallen through connection with labor.

Until young girls are kept within the sacred precincts of home, the condition of society will grow worse, and worse until the end is horrible to conceive. Parents allow their daughters to plod the streets until midnight, taking their word for it that it is all right.
Alone and unfettered, there is nothing but that which is degrading and atrocious for them to meet. They argue that they have worked all day and need the rest. So they do, but my God! see how the one sin begets

the other.

There is another argument against women doing manual labor. In every case a man is displaced, and in many instances is compelled to tramp, unable to regain the foothold he has lost.
He plunges into dissipation through the knowledge that loved ones are suffering and hungry at home, and is perhaps jerked up for a crime committed in a reckless moment, and sent to the penitentiary, owing to a false position of society and the introduction of woman labor to take place long and honorably filled by them.

I have no remedy to offer for this evil further than that the young be kept at home. Teach them their sacred influences and make it the one loved spot of all earth to them. Do not force the girls out into the world, for as sure as you do, so sure will they be lost if pushed into manual labor. Do better yourselves; and mothers, remember one thing: It takes all the law, all the care, all the devotion and attention in you, to save a boy or girl at best, and all should be done to keep your girls, especially from that fate whose pang are the most painful and heartrending of all, and for which there is no remedy.

—Jesse L. Edmundson.

Hereditary Blood Poison.

Many of the evils of life are inherent. Parents transmit to their children a state of blood impurity. What a fearful heritage to bequeath an innocent child! Scrofula, skin diseases, erysipelas, sore eyes, ringworm, tetter,
eczema, scald head, scabby surface, syphilitic symptoms, ulcerative and consumptive tendencies, etc., all of which make life miserable, and to a victim a prey to designing quacks.
It is surely a disgrace that this should be so. It is manifestly the duty of every one to keep their blood pure and their systems in condition of good health. Nature has given us kindly hints that we accomplish this properly used. The best are used with careful selection that compound known as Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. There is no phase blood poison this incomparable alternative will not relieve. If a sufferer from blood disease, you do yourselves great injustice if you fail to try it.

Drunkness—Liquor Habit—In all the World there is but One Cure, Dr.

Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be taken in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of "drunkards" have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its use, and it is safe, even when taken in large quantities. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, Golden Specific Co., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

A Certain Mist-Mark.

Joseph H. Rothman, a carpenter, residing at Connelville, Pa., has a crescent-shaped birth-mark on the back of his neck which has aroused considerable curiosity in that vicinity. When the mark is new Rothman's mark is hardly noticeable, but as Luna turns the first quarter it begins to turn red and swell.
By the time of full moon it has swollen into a horrible roll over two inches in thickness. As the moon wanes the mark decreases in size and color until it again becomes a bluish, crescent-shaped mark, hardly raised above the skin.—

time to establishing new churches and strengthening those already existing.

—In Montenegro, schools for elementary instruction are supported by the Government; education is compulsory and free of charge. In 1889 Montenegro had 10 elementary schools, with about 3,500 male, but only 900 female pupils.
All males under the age of twenty-five and over ten are supposed to be able to read and write. The country has a theological seminary and a gymnasium or college for boys at Cetinje, and a

—The Indian Commissioner has asked for an increase of about $200,000 over the appropriation for the current year for the maintenance of Indian education.
For eight years, beginning with 1876,
there was an annual average increase of 75 per cent in appropriations for this purpose, but for the last five or six years
there has been practically no increase, and in 1887 even a reduction. The Commissioner is but doing his duty in reminding us that if the Indian children are to be made self-supporting citizens,
and not continued as dependent pauper
wards of the Government, this educational work must be done, and Congress ought not to hesitate to provide for it adequately.—Harper's Weekly.

—It is said that one forgives because he forgets. As there is no lethe of forgetfulness for one's own shortcomings,
this may explain why a man can forgive any offense save an offense committed by himself against himself.—Judge.

—Habits are less easily acquired in mature life, than in youth; but even then their formation is not impossible if we can only find the right motive. It may not always be the best in itself, but the best that has power at the time and for that individual.

—Men generally consider it heavy to shoot or strike upon the slightest provocation. "Wounded dignity" is a big thing. It is the man who runs away is the brave man. This world would be much better off if it had less cowardly courage and more courageous cowardice.

—Whatever expands the affections, or enlarges the sphere of our sympathies—whatever makes us feel our relation to the universe, "and all that it inherita," beneficent cause of all, must unquestion-ably refine our nature, and elevate us to the state of being.—Channing.

—We make a fatal mistake to devote the whole of our strength and energy to warding off adverse ones. Much of it must of course be thus employed, but enough of it should be reserved for the reception, in the right spirit and with right aims, of whatever comes. Bacon tells us that the virtue of prosperity is temperance; and the virtue of adversity is fortitude; but it depends upon ourselves whether we gather these and other precious fruits from either of those plants.—A Week.

FRIDAY, JULY 11, 1890.

The Hopkinsville American has for some time been running at its head a paragraph from the KENTUCKIAN stating that the estimated Republican majority in Hopkinsville was 150. This was under the old order of things when the polls were controlled by Republican action officers and fraudulent votes were freely admitted. The KENTUCKIAN did not and does not now give 150 as its own estimate. With a fair vote of bona fide residents it is not willing to concede any majority at all and even in the two city districts, with a registered vote of 1830, out of which the American claims a majority of 290, we do not concede that any majority will be given for the Republican ticket, when the question of official honesty is the overshadowing issue in the campaign. The masses of the people are honest and since the American has committed its party to this issue and forced the other nominees to help carry the load of their brother who has violated the eleventh commandment and allowed himself to be "kicked," all former estimates must be changed. There is an estimate, however, that we are now figuring on that we hope to furnish the American at an early date. It already represents over one dollar for each voter of the county and only one branch of the stenage has been figured up. When our final estimate of the amount stolen from the people by Republican officials is given, the American will be at liberty to run it as a "top-of-the-column reader, weekly till forbidden." It will make mighty interesting information for the American's subscribers and especially for those who have been robbed.

HONEST JOHN'S SON JOHN.

(Owensboro Messenger of July 9.)

The Republican paper at Hopkinsville puts on a brazen countenance and undertakes to defend Ex-Sheriff Boyd from the charge of stealing the money of the State, the county and the people, (widows, orphans and ignorant negroes being his especial game), while that gentleman has been himself coiled into silence ever since the investigation of his books commenced. The worst feature of this defense, however, is the effort of the paper to bolster up Boyd in his candidacy for re-election by printing his picture in connection with three other prominent Republican candidates, terming them "The Big Four" with the suggestive line beneath them "United we Stand." More than this it strongly intimates that the Republican party and the other candidates will attempt to carry Boyd through the present contest.

Among these candidates we see the name of John Feland, Jr. It is to be hoped that this promising young man, who has a bright future before him will not through party feeling allow his name to be linked with Boyd's in his present odium. If he goes down in defeat with Boyd that is the end of him politically. If he is made of the same stuff as his father, Honest John Feland, known as such throughout the limits of Kentucky, he will repudiate the action of the Republican organ at Hopkinsville and repudiate the guilty ex-sheriff. His father does not and would not defend the corrupt Republican ring at Hopkinsville that has had its hands in the people's pockets for years, and he should be no less a man.

The feeling of friendly interest we have in young Feland suggests that he will rise to the occasion, and cut loose from the boys, Browns, etc., and be a man after the style that has made his father so much admired in Kentucky, irrespective of party lines.

THREE THOUSAND MORE.

That is the Amount of Ex-Sheriff Cyrus M. Brown's Shortage.

The Auditor's Agent has finished his investigation of ex-Sheriff Cyrus M. Brown's books and a shortage is shown for every year of his two terms. The following itemized report has been made, showing a deficit of $3,283.33.

1881 Listed $27,641. Taxes collected $417.17

1882 " 21,000 " " 1108.28

1883 " 21,000 " " 1108.28

1884 " 21,000 " " 1108.28

Total for four years $84,641.00

20 per cent. on State's part of $1,272

$204.46

$82,596.54

The shortage indicates a number of polls listed and collected.

In 1881 Sheriff Brown had charge of his own books, but during the other three years O. S. Brown was his revenue deputy. Much of the crookedness was therefore done in that gentleman's fine Italian hand. The listed property not reported in eight years from 1881 to 1888 aggregates the enormous total of $776,177—more than three-quarters of a million—and the amounts due the State and county foot up something more than $11,000. This does not take into account thousands of dollars filched from the people during a part of the eight years that the State was being defrauded. The question now to be decided is whether all or only a part of the lump was levied by this little eleven thousand.

It is claimed by Mr. Brown that, as an offset to this the county owes him $1,200 for selling bonds for taxes.

O. S. BROWN'S CONFESSION.

The long expected confession of Omar S. Brown, for the campaign purposes of Mr. John Boyd in his present race for sheriff, was printed Monday evening and was cautiously handed around to a limited number of people. It had been boldly proclaimed that Brown would assume all the rascality, or "crookedness," as the original card was written, but Brother Brown was too shy to do that, and while making a general denial of his guilt and attributing everything to "errors and mistakes," he takes the pains to implicate Boyd beyond a doubt by stating that he personally "took a few lists" and collected a "little of the revenues," which money was turned over to him and never found its way to the State. In fact in those days, with Brown at one end of the line and Tate at the other, it took a mighty slick, bright dollar to get to the right place. The KENTUCKIAN here presents to the public Mr. Brown's confession or denial as the case may be. It is about the weakest defense ever offered by a man guilty of crime.

TO THE PUBLIC:

It having been publicly stated that there are errors and mistakes in the tax books of Christian county for the years during which Mr. John Boyd held the office of Sheriff of said county, it is proper for me to state that the matter of making out said books and collecting the revenue for the period named were entrusted to me as office deputy by Mr. Boyd, and that the books were made out by me, and I had charge of the collection of said revenues accordingly. Whatever errors appear on the said tax books Mr. Boyd is not responsible for, and if there are any errors or mistakes of any kind therein, they were unintentionally committed by me, and not by Mr. Boyd. I fell to me also, having charge of the collection of said revenues, to list property during those years that was omitted by the Assessors, and this was done by me, and very few lists were taken by Mr. Boyd, and he personally collected very little of the revenues during his two official terms, and what little he collected was turned over to me as the office and revenue deputy. On account of my negligence, and not by reason of any fault of Mr. Boyd, full settlement has not yet been made for the revenues collected on property so listed during the period referred to, but the public may rest assured that we are no defaulters, as has been so widely charged, but that we are ready and prepared to settle fully, and not one cent will be lost by the State, the county, or any individual.

O. S. BROWN.

July 7, 1890.

It will be seen that Mr. Brown admits that he had charge of Mr. Boyd's books as "deputy," a fact no one has denied. He also collected the revenues and acknowledged responsibility for "whatever errors appear on the said tax books." It is not errors that are now being discussed. It is the plain and outrageous stealing that has been discovered and proven. If Mr. Brown means to say that all that has been discovered was the result of "mistakes unintentionally committed," he has changed his line of defense since he made his verbal confession. This part of his card is simply false upon its face and no man who has read the official reports of a sworn officer's investigation, or who has a raised tax receipt in his pocket, will credit any part of a statement, a material part of which is so palpably untrue. So much for the denial of facts already proven. Mr. Brown does his principal but little good in his admission that Mr. Boyd collected a part of the money withheld and turned it over to him. This puts Mr. Boyd in the attitude of having aided in the commission of the very crookedness his deputy is asked to assume and the same law applies with equal force to the man who aids and the one who actually commits an offense of this kind.

Mr. Brown confesses "negligence" in conclusion, but fails to tell under what authority he could have made any settlement with the State. He was simply a deputy and the State does not settle except with principals and the quistos in November, 1888, was given to Mr. Boyd and not to Mr. Brown. Mr. Brown was merely one of Mr. Boyd's deputies, not one of the people but appointed by Mr. Boyd himself. Now it is not denied that Mr. Boyd is legally the responsible party, for the suits have been brought against him as principal and against Mr. Brown only as one of his bondsmen. He is accountable to the State, then how can he be less accountable to the people who confided a trust to him.

Mr. Brown's mind is evidently still running in the criminal features of this robbery, as he hastens to add after confessing his responsibility that he is not a defaulter. Oh! no, it is no defalcation to pocket thousands of dollars of public funds and keep it for years and give it up only at the end of the law. Then what is it?

Correspondence.

A NEWSY LETTER.

PER DEE, July 8.—I have seen nothing in your paper from Per Dee for some time; if you will give me a small amount of space I will give you a few items.

To begin with, the weather continues dry and hot, with very little signs of rain.

The farmers are making good use of the dry weather in making hay and threshing wheat.

Messrs. Nance & Binns have dissolved partnership in the milling business. Mr. Binns has gone to Princeton to take charge of a mill. We regret very much to lose Mr. Binns and family from our neighborhood.

Mr. G. W. Jones is very sick with catarrh of the head, hope to see him out again in a few days.

Little Myrtle Timman, who is living with J. I. Longacre, has been very sick with intermittent fever for several days, but is considerably better at this time. Dr. Jack Whitlock is treating her.

Mrs. Ward, of Pembroke, is visiting relatives in Per Dee.

Messrs. Redd & Northington got their saw mill destroyed by fire a short time ago, supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Mr. R. C. Crenshaw will buy and ship wheat from Newstead again this season.

At a colored barbecue near this place on Saturday night last Baily Reece and Andrew Thomas had a falling out over a game of cards. Reece threw a lamp at Thomas, who then drew his pistol and shot Reece in the right side, the ball passing through the upper part of the lung, lodging under the shoulder blade. He is in a very critical condition. Thomas is still at large.

Misses Lucy and Molly Dickenson are visiting relatives in Gallatin, Tenn. PER DEE DEDE.

OAK GROVE.

Oak Grove, Ky., July 7.—We are exceedingly dry in this section, no rain of consequence since 14th of June.

Corn is beginning to twist badly and in some places to burn.

Wheat threshing is well under way and the yield is very poor. It is generally conceded now that not over 40 per cent. of a crop will be realized.

Tobacco looks remarkably well considering the dry weather, but horn worms are worse than I ever saw them this early in the season.

Vegetables are giving out; our gardens are drying up, and if it does not rain soon our prospects for the future will indeed be bleak.

The attractive and accomplished Miss Lena Hopson, of Canton, Ky., is visiting Misses Lizzie and Mattie Garrett to the delight of her many friends.

I understand that the concert given at Bell's Station on July 2nd, for the benefit of the Grange Hall, was a decided success and that about $19 was realized. The young ladies of this community deserve a great deal of credit for their efforts in this noble enterprise.

More next time. ROMEO.

BEGINNING TO DISGORE.

$4,331 Recovered and More to Come.

The County Court of Claims met yesterday, all of the magistrates excepting W. T. Hight and J. D. Collins being present. The court held morning and afternoon sessions and much discussion was indulged in.

Attorneys for John Boyd and C. M. Brown appeared with a proposition to settle by the State's examination. This was objected to by many and finally they altered the proposition, agreeing to make a partial settlement, leaving the fees to be adjudicated in an agreed case in Circuit Court and a further investigation to be made to settle by finally.

This was adopted by a vote of 21 to 13 and W. M. West appointed receiver for the money. The proposition was amended to provide that no penalties or criminal liabilities were waived by receiving a part of the money due the county. The amounts paid in were as follows: From C. M. Brown $1,744.94, less $434 fees claimed. From John Boyd $3,089.03 less $980 fees claimed, and $730 railroad tax for '87, less 4 per cent. By this arrangement the total cash to be disbursed at once is $4,331, leaving $1,439 more to be used for, being the fees claimed for collecting taxes from two to eight years ago. The settlement was not a compromise and did not waive any penalties the court may hold should be added.

A committee was appointed, consisting of Jno. W. Payne, Geo. H. Myers, T. C. Tinsley, and T. M. Barker to investigate the books on behalf of the county and report for a final settlement.

A second committee consisting of W. S. Davison and R. T. McDaniel was appointed to examine and compare the books to ascertain the raises and false calculations by which taxpayers have been defrauded. They are to be paid $2 per day and $100 was appropriated. Esquire Barker thought Mr. Boyd should pay this, but that gentleman was interviewed and declined to do it and the money was appropriated.

Tax payers are to be notified what is due them and they can collect from the ex-sheriffs or sue for principal and interest on their bonds.

HOW IT NOW STANDS.

County, 8 yrs. without penalty. $5,770 State, 8 yrs. with penalty. 5,655

$11,425

Private taxes not included.

That Cold Wave.

The cold wave predicted by the Weather Bureau reached us yesterday morning. The mercury for several days previous had got above 100 degrees and three persons in the brick yard of Dalton Bros. were prostrated by heat Tuesday. The weather clerk, it is hoped, will see to it that we have a good rain in a few days, as vegetation is beginning to suffer.

Cholera infantum has lost its terrors since the introduction of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. When that remedy is used and the treatment as directed with each bottle is followed, a cure is certain. Mr. A. W. Walker, a prominent merchant at Watertown, Ill., says:

"I cured my baby boy of cholera infantum after several other remedies had failed. The child was so low that he seemed almost beyond the aid of human hands or reach of any medicine." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Buckner & Leavelle.

This district has never had a more faithful Congressman than this session. Capt. Ellis has never missed a vote on any important measure and has made three speeches on as many different subjects that attracted the attention of the country.

CHAMBERLAIN'S

Eye and Skin Ointment.

A certain cure for Chronic Ocular Erythema, Tetters, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Old Chronic Sores, Fever Sores, Eczema, Itch, Psoriasis, Scabies, Scurs, Nipples and Piles. It is cooling and soothing. Hundreds of cases have been cured by it after all other treatment had failed. 25 and 50 cent boxes for sale by Buckner & Leavelle.

R. M. Woodbridge spent yesterday in Lexington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Trice are at Cerulean this week.

Mr. S. C. Mercer is up again after a few days' sickness.

Mrs. J. W. Downer is visiting friends in Todd county.

Miss Lena Pyle is visiting friends near Fairview this week.

Eq. T. C. Tinsley returned Wednesday from Mammoth Cave.

Mrs. Chester Malone, of Louisville, is visiting Mrs. Col. M. D. Brown.

Miss Willie Radford left yesterday for a visit to friends in Clarksville.

Mrs. G. H. Johnson and children have returned from a visit to Cerulean.

Mrs. Sallie Brown, of St. Charles, is visiting her relative Mrs. Dr. Nisbet.

Miss Rosa P. Pool, of Cerulean Springs, is visiting Mrs. W. S. Johnson.

Miss Mary Rogers, of Owensboro, is visiting the family of Dr. P. T. Rogers.

R. G. Pryor, representing Snider's Sons, Cincinnati, was in the city Wednesday.

Mr. O. A. Wyane, general agent for the Singer Mfg. Co., is spending the week in the city.

Joe D. Higgins and wife returned Wednesday from a pleasant visit to Louisville friends.

Ed. Higgins and wife, of Crofton, have gone to Hurricane Springs, Tenn., to spend a few weeks.

Judge W. H. Yost was in town yesterday. He will speak here at some date to be fixed, before the election.

Mr. Neal Miller, of Sherman, Tex., is visiting relatives and friends in the city, after an absence of nineteen years.

Miss Josie Schlamp, of Henderson, who has been visiting Mrs. Jas. M. Howe and T. W. Long, leaves for home to-day.

Mrs. Mattie McLeod, after an extended visit to relatives in the city and county, left for her new home in Denver, Col., last Wednesday.

Mrs. Geo. W. Means and Miss Leah Lander, of Louisville, arrived in the city Wednesday night and left for Providence yesterday to visit relatives.

Mr. W. W. Alexander returned from Eldorado, Ill., this morning, where he had been to attend the funeral of his father-in-law, who died Monday.

Attorney W. E. McCormick has had a situation in the Hamden-Sidney (Va.) College faculty offered him. After consideration he has decided not to accept and will remain in this city.

Mrs. Frankel of Hopkinsville, and her sister, Mrs. Berry, who is her guest from St. Louis, Ohio, are visiting Capt. Wm. Kleeman's family in this city. They will spend the week.

Mr. Chas. F. McCarroll has gone to Louisville to become manager of the Greenville Tobacco Works, recently moved to that city. He will be greatly missed here in business and social circles, where he is very popular.

Why It Is Popular.

Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unblemished record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true.

These strong points have made Hood's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day.

DEATHS.

An Angham patient named Givens died Monday.

An infant of Mr. Thomas Childress died near the city Tuesday.

Gilbert son of Mr. Chas. Higgen, died in the city Monday, of cholera infantum, aged one year.

An old gentleman named Brower died near Kelly Monday, of general debility. He was about 70 years of age.

Willie Yancey, son of Mr. J. W. Yancey, died at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, of typhoid fever, aged 13 years. He had been sick for more than two weeks, and was considered much better until yesterday when he suffered a relapse.

COLORED.

Infant of Charity McReynolds died in the city Monday.

Mr. Van Pelt, Editor of the Craig, Mo., Meteor, went to a drug store at Hillsdale, Iowa, and asked the physician in attendance to give him a dose of something for cholera morbus and looseness of the bowels. He says: "I felt so much better the next morning that I concluded to call on the physician and get him to fix me up a supply of the medicine. I was surprised when he handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy. He said he prescribed it regularly in his practice and found it the best he could get or prepare. I can testify to its efficiency in my case at all events." For sale by Buckner Leavelle.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Green Ruse to Linda Ware. Jno. McKenzie to Bettie Barden. Field Davenport to Malinda Tandy. Joe Gibson to Carrie Ray. Bobt. Quisenberry to Maggie Wormold.

HERE AND THERE.

Plenty of bags for grapes at this office.

Vitalia Liver Pills, small and sugar-coated.

Mr. W. T. Radford, who has been quite sick, is able to be out again.

A number of young people will attend the ball at Cerulean to-night.

Born to the wife of Mr. W. E. Ragdale this week, a young Democrat.

R. M. Woodbridge, livery, feed & sale stable, Fritz' stand. Telephone 144.

Miss Genevieve Anderson has recovered from a severe attack of sickness.

Conductor Shrove has again secured a passenger run on this division of the L. & N.

The candidates on both sides open the stump campaign at Dogwood Chapel, north of town, to-morrow.

Do you want a good cheap Piano? Same far sale. Call on James E. Scooby, South Kentucky College.

A "lawn scare" will be given at the residence of Arthur Banks on next Thursday night, for the benefit of the C. M. E. church.

Rev. S. N. Vail's furniture arrived this week, and he is occupying the cottage on South Main, adjoining the residence of Mr. Buckner Leavelle.

The Christian Women's Charity Association will meet at the residence of Mr. S. G. Buckner, on South Main, at 1:30 p. m. Monday next, the 14th.

There will be a social at the residence of Mr. L. F. Ellis on next Friday night. Teas will be served. Old and young invited. Ten cents admission.

Prof. C. H. Dietrich and Capt. A. V. Townes have begun a survey that is expected to be of great importance to Hopkinsville. They will go to Eddyville along the route proposed for the Hopkinsville & Cadiz railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Higgen lost their bright little boy last Tuesday. He died of cholera infantum after but a few days illness. The funeral service was held at the residence of Mr. S. N. Vail Wednesday and the body laid to rest in the city cemetery.

The largest cow probably ever seen in the county is now in the pasture of Mr. W. S. Boales. When bought it weighed 1,600 pounds, which is nearly double the weight of an ordinary cow. It will be fattened for beef, and, it is believed, be made to weigh nearly 2,000 pounds.

A wagon going at a rapid rate ran into Mr. J. M. Tarr's carriage near Crab Orchard pond Monday evening and utterly demolished the vehicle. His wife and other members of his family were in the carriage and they escaped unhurt is almost a miracle. The wagon belonged to Mr. L. L. Buckner.

The Latham Light Guards will go into camp at Cerulean Springs on Saturday, the 19th, and will remain one week. S. W. Gunn & Co. have extended the company the courtesies of the Springs, and a very pleasant time will be spent. Arrangements will be completed to-night, at which time all members expecting to go are requested to meet at the Army.

The sixth ball given by the Graceland Club Tuesday night was well attended and was quite a success, as usual. Good music was furnished and dancing was indulged in until long after midnight. The managers are due much credit for their untiring efforts to make it pleasant for all who attended, and without a dissenting voice the verdict was "a first-class time."

Mr. H. F. Hammaek, of Roaring Springs, Ky., was thrown from his buggy Wednesday evening near the residence of Mr. Geo. R. Pierce and had his leg broken. He was taken to Mr. Pierce's house, where he was yesterday under surgical treatment. Mr. Hammaek is a prominent and highly respected young man, a son-in-law of Mrs. Bush, of Roaring Springs.

In this issue is published an editorial taken from the Oakland, Cal., Dial, which was written by Mr. Josiah L. Edmundson, formerly of this city, who is now making a reputation in California journalism. His friends here will learn with pleasure that he has attained a position of prominence in his profession, being editor of an influential society paper in a large city. It will be observed that he wields a trenchant pen and writes upon an interesting subject in an entertaining style. His article is well worth a careful perusal.

The peculiar enervating effect of summer weather is driven off by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which "makes the weak strong."

Young John Feland Resigns.

(Bowling Green Times.)

Geo. R. Gorin returned Monday from Tompkinsville where he has been taking the recorded jobbedness of the county for the census bureau. He has finished his work in this district with the exception of three counties. He left Tuesday for the Second district, being sent there by State Agent Reynolds to finish the work in Daviess county.

John Feland, Jr., who was appointed to do the work in the Second district, began this county, but didn't finish and has resigned his position. How long Mr. Gorin will be kept in the Second district he doesn't know, as he is there subject to the orders of his Superior. Mr. Gorin has done his work in an eminently satisfactory manner and has shown himself an expert in the business.

Bellamy Finally Wounded by Officer Harvey McCord.

A BAD MAN FROM HENDERSON.

In a shooting scrape on Main street Tuesday evening Thos. R. Bellamy was killed and Policeman J. E. Cliborne shot three times in the legs and badly wounded. Five shots were fired by Bellamy, three by Policeman Harvey McCord and two on three by a third party from across the street, whose identity has not yet been fixed.

Shortly before 7:30 o'clock Policeman Cliborne came around the corner of Eighth street walking with Bellamy. The latter was drunk and very noisy and Cliborne was remonstrating with him. He had out a pistol which he was flourishing in his hands and defying arrest. When they reached Savage's produce store on Main, two doors from the corner, both parties stopped. Cliborne stood on the curb in front of Savage's and Bellamy a little lower down in front of Bell's saloon. At this juncture someone telephoned to the Police headquarters that Cliborne was in trouble and Officer Harvey McCord started to his assistance. The distance is about three squares and all this time Bellamy was flourishing his pistol, every now and then pointing it at Cliborne and ordering him to hold up his hands. Cliborne made no effort to draw his own weapon, but was trying to quiet Bellamy by talking to him, and says he did not believe Bellamy intended to shoot him but thought he could finally get him quiet and arrest him without trouble.

Judge J. T. Savage was an eye witness to the affair and as he is a very cool and self-possessed man, who seldom gets excited his testimony may be taken as very reliable. He sat in a chair in front of Hooser's, the store adjoining his own, during the whole trouble. Taking up the matter at the approach of McCord his account is as follows:

"McCord came across from Howe's corner and seems to have reached Hooser's before Bellamy or Cliborne saw him. Just as McCord reached my door he drew his pistol. Bellamy at the same time saw him and turning his weapon from Cliborne to McCord both raised and fired simultaneously. McCord stood in my door behind the chicken coop and Bellamy about ten steps from him in front of Bell's saloon. Cliborne was on the curb about half way between them. After the first shot McCord got behind the door facing and took deliberate aim at Bellamy and shot twice more. One of these shots killed him. Bellamy in the meantime had turned his weapon upon Cliborne at close range and shot him in rapid succession three times. His last shot after receiving his death wound went wild and struck the window frame to the left of the little vestibule in front of Bell's saloon. All five of Bellamy's shots have been accounted for. The first struck the top frame work of Savage's chicken coop, was deflected downward, killed a chicken in its passage through the coop and came out at the other end, within a few inches of McCord's legs. If the shot had been aimed two inches higher, McCord would have been hit, as he was directly in line and his body showing from the waist up. Bellamy's next three shots were fired into Cliborne. Two of them made flesh wounds in his left thigh and the other shattered the bone of the right leg four inches above the knee. Cliborne fell after the third wound and dragged himself on one knee and dropped in Savage's door. He never drew his weapon at all. It was in his pocket with two of the five chambers empty after he fell. McCord fired three shots, only one of which took effect. The others served to scatter the crowd sitting around the Phoenix Hotel corner, but injured no one."

The above account is corroborated in all essential details by R. H. Holland and L. Bell, who also saw it from their doors. In addition to the eight shots located, other shots were fired; two of these struck the facing of Bell's window and which evidently came from across the street. The witnesses decline to say who this third party was. Officer McCord's statement is substantially the same as Judge Savage's.

Bellamy, after receiving his fatal wound, staggered back a few steps and fell at the Opera House door. When picked up he was dead, having been shot through the body.

Thos. R. Bellamy was of English parentage and was born in Evansville 37 years ago. He was a brickmason by trade and while living in this city in 1879 married Miss Mattie Davis, a daughter of Mrs. A. J. Davis, and they have one child, a ten-year-old boy who works at Bassett & Co's. Some years ago Bellamy moved to Henderson and worked at his trade. He was a Republican and when Harrison came in he got a place in the railway service which he lost some time ago by reason of his drunkenness. He arrived on the 5 p. m. train Tuesday and struck the town drunk and disorderly and in three hours was a corpse

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—Chloride of lime should be scattered at least once a week under sinks, and in all places where sewer gas is liable to lurk.

—Medicine stains may be removed from silver spoons by rubbing them with a rag dipped in diluted sulphuric acid, and washing it off with soap suds.

—To avoid the odor that arises when boiling green vegetables, boil them about five minutes, then drain off the water and fill up the pot with fresh boiling water. A perceptible difference in the air of the kitchen will be the result.

—Spanish lustre is made by first dissolving three ounces of white castile soap in one quart of warm water, then adding two ounces of ether, four ounces of ammonia, and one ounce each of alcohol and glycerine. One teaspoonful of this is enough for a teaspoon of warm water, unless the article to be treated is very badly soiled. —The Housekeeper.

—Window plants may be grown any season of the year in the following manner: Soak a large piece of coarse sponge in water, squeeze half dry and sprinkle in the openings of the sponge, then add two ounces of ether, four ounces of ammonia, and one ounce each of alcohol and glycerine. One teaspoonful of this is enough for a teaspoon of warm water, unless the article to be treated is very badly soiled. —The Housekeeper.

—Cranberry Jelly With Coconut Cream.—To make this dish mix one quart of strained cranberry juice with three cups of granulated sugar, and one cup of crystallized ginger. Boil this until it jellies, then pour it into shallow plates which have been dipped into cold water. When cold, turn it into clean plates, carefully scrape out the middle of each mound and fill it with coconut cream. —Exchange.

—Milk should be kept for family use in glass vessels only. Glass pitchers and glass jars can be washed with cold soda solution, prepared as above stated, and the vessels should be rinsed with clean water, and if necessary should be cleaned after the soda-washing with a wet rag and pumice-stone and then rinsed. Earthen vessels are apt to give a bad flavor to milk, and it is not some times good to use glass.

—Every housekeeper should have a kitchen memorandum. It consists of a board which is hung on a nail above the kitchen table. On the left hand side of this board the names of all staple groceries are written, and opposite each name is a small hole. A small box is fastened to the bottom of the board, and in it are a number of small pegs which are made to fit the holes. When the housekeeper notices that a certain article is needed, she sticks a peg into the hole opposite its name, then, when the husband goes to town, or the grocery boy comes, it is easy to make a list of the things needed and have nothing forgotten. —Household.

THE WATER WAS HOT.

A Celebrated Practical Joker Gets Tables Turned on Him.

Young Edward H. Sothorn is pretty nearly as much disposed to practical jokes as was his father, who in his day beat the world's record in that line, but the young man has recently had to acknowledge that for once he was overdone. The incident occurred at the hotel where Mr. Sothorn was stopping. A party of his friends were discussing the laughable and effective scene in the second act of "Lord Chumley," in which he takes his morning bath behind a tub full of water speaks of the coldness of the water and his perplexities in dressing. The group of his friends fell into an argument as to whether Sothorn could do the whole thing in nine minutes, the time which it occupies on the stage.

The debate culminated in a wager, the winner to donate stakes to a charitable purpose, that Mr. Sothorn could not enter the bath-room in the hotel, robe himself in his dressing-gown, take his plunge, dress himself as in the play, repeating the lines set down in the same manner as he does each evening, and reappear in nine minutes. Mr. Sothorn thought he could, although he never tried it. At the time appointed the persons interested met Mr. Sothorn in his room, and while he retired behind a screen to disrobe for the trial one of the number volunteered to fill the bath-tub with water, stating that at the appointed time only Mr. Sothorn should plunge into it so as to be thoroughly submerged. This gentleman was the one who had wagered that Mr. Sothorn could not succeed. When he was announced as ready Mr. Sothorn entered the bath room, partially closing the door, and proceeded with the lines of the play, speaking them just as earnestly as he does on the stage. People who have seen him perform, although he never tried it, said: "Oh, what a splendid fellow! He speaks of the water being frozen, his calling for a hammer to break the ice, his shivering in contemplation, and then saying: 'One brave plunge, and all is over.' Just as he is supposed to dash into the water."

Sothorn made a brave jump into the bath tub at the hotel, and the noise of the plunge was distinctly heard outside. Then came up a great deal of splashing and shouting. "What a splendid fellow! He speaks of the water being frozen, his calling for a hammer to break the ice, his shivering in contemplation, and then saying: 'One brave plunge, and all is over.' Sothorn made a brave jump into the bath tub at the hotel, and the noise of the plunge was distinctly heard outside. Then came up a great deal of splashing and shouting. "What a splendid fellow! He speaks of the water being frozen, his calling for a hammer to break the ice, his shivering in contemplation, and then saying: 'One brave plunge, and all is over.' Just as he is supposed to dash into the water."

NOT REVOTED ENOUGH.

Why Sam Potts did not Revote Shipped to the Editor.

Sam Potts met Moll Dorch in the road. "Why how is you, sister Moll?"

"I gives you thanks dat I've well Brader Sam. I all yers 'erains in de prosperous 'dition."

"Mighty, sister, mighty. Hugs gittin' fatter an' fatter ever day, an' de cown gits so much milk we don't know what to do 'bout it. Walcher way you givin' under de rays o' dis yore lubly mawwin?"

"Des er walkin' 'round ter 'joy de frosh a' de season."

"You looks like you 'yos de season, an' de season looks like it 'yos you, sister, ter 'lar to goodness I ain't aond such a putty lady sence I wain't mo' den er year ole."

"To on man, you kain't compermen' me."

"I ain't tryin' ter compermen' you—jes tryin' ter tell you some truf. I've had dis yere eye on you for some time, an' ole Bob ever dies, w'y I want you might be dead. Yore me."

"Cose I yers you, but look yere, man, me an' Bob dan been maid to long ter talk datter way."

"Doan kere how lang you been maid, he mout die."

"Yes, Brader Sam, dat is de truf."

"Say, sis Moll, ef Bob does die wain't you promise ter be my spered and wain't be my comf?"

"Oh, I's kain't de skriptor on you now, an' I's coatin' git out 'fun under de cold. Yore me."

"I's coatin' git out 'fun under de cold. Yore me, but I doas wain't promise ter maid you."

"It is becuse you doan lub me, ain't it?"

"Oh, no, dat ain't de cause."

"What is de cause?"

"W'y, it's dis: Ef I wain't promise to maid you in de case Bob dies, you do you know what you would do?"

"What would I do, sweet lady?"

"W'd I pizen Bob, dat's what you'd do."

"Oh, no, I wouldn't. I wouldn't do gothin' like dat fer ez much money as I could stan' fat-footed an' ill."

"Yes, Sam, I've feared you mout pizen him. Oh, I knows you mout. I ain't lub no yers shot all de time I've been er lady, I ain't. Yore pizen dat po' man, shu' o' I wain't promise to maid you."

"I tell you, I swear dat I wouldn't," the ole fellow pleaded. "I knows what de puzson's duty is in dis yere life, an' I wain't be de las' man ter do nothin' wrong. No, I wouldn't pizen him, sis Moll."

"An' ef I wain't promise dis munit ter maid you wain't lub dis, you say you wouldn't pizen him?"

"Sweet lady, I swear 'to de Lawd I wouldn't."

"Wall, den, ef you wouldn't pizen him den ain't no promise. You say you wouldn't do no lubber lubber or nuff ter pizen or puzson so he kin git her, ain't my idee o' er luber. Go on yere way, now. I ain't gwine ter gib you my 'fections." —Arkansas Traveler.

A NEW GARDEN TOOL.

The Sergeant Wanted Six Testimonials, and He Got Them.

An old sergeant belonging to the colored troops stationed at Fort Bryan, New Mexico, and who is detailed as head gardener, was directed to furnish the quartermaster with a list of garden tools wanted for the coming season. On the following day the list was handed in and taken up by the quartermaster, who was somewhat puzzled over an item of "six testimonials." Never having heard of such a tool the old sergeant was sent for to explain. Pointing to the item, the quartermaster asked what it was.

"Den am testimonials," the sergeant replied.

"But there is no such tool," the quartermaster said.

"Oh, yes," replied the sergeant. "Dat's de name de catalogue speecies."

"Living me de catalogue," the quartermaster said.

A few moments later the sergeant returned, a big twinkle of satisfaction lighting up his coal-black countenance. With a step full of confidence he walked up to the quartermaster's desk, opened the catalogue, and pointed to the item of "six testimonials." Memorable Recusio.

Mrs. Michael Curran, of Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was. —Free trial bottles of the Great Discovery at H. B. Garner's Pharmacy, large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

Happy Hoosiers.

Wm. Timmons, postmaster at Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from Kidney and Liver troubles." John Lewis, farmer, at stockman, of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same place, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle at H. B. Garner's City Pharmacy."

Oldest Woman Living.

Her Age 130 and She Has Over Four Thousand Descendants.

Living in Chattanooga, Tenn., is Elizabeth Potter, colored, aged 130 years. She is not only noted for her old age but also for the number of her descendants, she being the mother, grandmother, great-grandmother and great-great-grandmother of 4,499 persons. Of children she had twenty-seven, the last one dying June 9, 1889, at the advanced age of 94, near Little Rock, La. Mrs. Potter's husband, Mr. Thomas, died at the age of 106 years, having lived 120 years. Her descendants have been engaged in various callings. The men are employed in work ranging from wood-chopping to practicing law, the women from domestic service to elevated positions in leading institutions of education. Years ago she was bereft of her mind, and little is known of her early history except her birth, which occurred near the New river.
